The Gift of Hearing

While the holidays are a time filled with joy and anticipation, they can be a struggle for people with hearing loss. For them, it can be difficult to distinguish voices, hard to follow conversations, and stressful and lonely when others are enjoying holiday music and cheer.

Holiday time is the perfect time to take note of those who don't have hearing treatment, but are struggling to be a part of the conversation. Once the gift exchanges and holiday dinners are over, it's a great time to have the discussion with them that it's time to get a hearing assessment done.

Insider Exclusive

In November, Sherina was given the opportunity to present at the Dementia Care Day Conference. She presented amongst other healthcare professionals, nurses, doctors and Members of Provincial Parliament!

This event was hosted by our dear friends at Peel Alzheimer's Society and it turned out to be very informative for all of us in the healthcare system.

We got the opportunity to exchange knowledge with one another on how to ultimately provide the best care to our patients in the community, all across the board!
